AGUE AND FEVER-GREAT CURE.-I hereby certify that for three years I had Ague and Fever of the most violent description. I had several Physicians, took large quantities of Quinine, Mercury, and I believe all the Tonics advertised, but all without permanent relief. The Most Wonderful Medicine ver discovered for the certain cure of Ague and Fever Intermittent and Bilious Fevers.

Ober & Co.'s Vegetable Specific.

THE proprietors of this valuable Medicine have never made any efforts to introduce it before a public, yet it has found great favor far and near. Certificates without number have been furnished of its virtues, without any solicitation, and many cures performed when all other medicines have failed. All that is asked is a trial. It has stood the test for several years, and we say, without fear, that no better preparation for the cure of Ague and Fever can be oduced. As an evidence we publish a certificate of a gentleman well known: of a gentleman well known:

"I take great pleasure in recommending the Spesific prepared by Ober & McConkey, for the cure of Ague and Fever, as the best article for the accomplishment of that object I have ever met with. In my family it has succeeded beyond my most sanguine expectations, and therefore, I consider it a privilege as well as a duty to recommend its use to all who may be suffering un ler the influence of that listressing affliction.

SANDY BOTTOM, MIDDLESEX Co., Va. August 29th, 1853. Messrs. Mortimer & Mowbray—Gents: You may think it strange that I have taken the liberty to write you this letter, but I do so under circumstances that justify it. As you are the Agents for HAMP-TON'S VEGETABLE TINCTURE, I deem it expedient to address you this note, hoping it may be a part of the honorable means of giving this medicine notoriety which its merits deserve. Being in the habit of vending medicines which relate to the Patent and regular system, I consider myself, to some extent, a judge of the real merit of many of them. My experience teaches me that "Ham-ton's Tincture" is a medicine of real merit of intrasic value. When I say this, I do not say that it is an infallible cure, in all cases, but I mean years standing, by the use of two bottles of Carter's to say that "Hampton's Tincture" will favorably sperate in all diseases originating from a want of proper secretions of the gastric juices, bad digestion, and consequently bad deposites of animal matter from that source. I believe that many diseases located in various parts of the system, such as Inflamation, Ulcers, Scrofula, &c., &c., originally have their being in the stomach, from bad food, bad digestion, and consequently bad depositions of the circulation those parts; and I will believe Hampton's Vege-spanish Mixture, of Safe Blackin, which all the physicisus nearly twenty years, and which all the physicisus fever; first stop the chill, and then give the Terrest to the city could not cure. Mr. Thompson is a well known merchant in the city of Richmond, Va., and the chill, but the return of it, this the Tincture will the chill, but the return of it, this the Tincture will certainly do. In general debilitations, I warrant it, and as I said before I have procured a trial of it in this way, which otherwise I could not; the people have been humbugged by patent medicines so long, that they are afraid of all. This is clearly a knomach inedicine, it works all its wonders there, and in all such cases it is a specific, if anything in the world is.

DAILY EVENING STAR.

FOR THE STAR. WINTER IS COMING. All the robes of trees are tattered, Silence sobs within the vale; All the flowers are shorn and shattered, And no longer scent the gale.

Cold and colder grows the billow,

For Old Winter's coming, coming, For Old Winter's coming on.

All the green that graced the meadow, Pageantry of shining field, All have dwindled into shadow, And delight no longer yield. High above, the birds of passage, In the pathway of the sun, Tell us Winter's coming, coming,

That Old Winter's coming on.

In the sky dark clouds are lying, Clinging to the skirts of air, And the heavens seem a sighing For the glory that was there. Co'd and colder grows the billow, And the day looks pale and wan, For Old Winter's coming, coming, For Old Winter's coming on. ALEXANDRIA, VA., November, 1853.

NEWSPAPER CREDIT SYSTEM.

The following remarks in relation to the newspaper credit system, which we clip from one of our exchanges, exposes the loss which newspaper publishers are subject to, who send out their papers on credit, and will give our readers some idea of our troubles. Read it:

With publishers of newspapers, in common with business men generally, the cash system is preferable to any other; to publishers who rely upon their subscription list for their support, for the prosecution of their business, they must necessarily be the loser. There are thousands of well-meaning men who subscribe for them, but the idea of writing a letter to an editor enclosing two, three or five dollars, never enters their heads, though if called upon for the amount due, would probably be prepared to meet the demand. But the publisher of almost every country newspaper knows it would carry on business. Here then is a loss age. not attributed to any design on the part of the subscribers to defraud, but the fruit of a worse than worthless system. his pay.

LOTTERY SCHEMES .- The editor of the New Haven Register begs the managers of the Maryland lotteries to cease their endeavors to seduce him into imposing upon his readers by recommending their lottery schemes. He says:

"In the first place, the laws of Con-

In the third place, by lightning, and about as desirable. Sixthly, we have no confidence in the honesty of those who get them up, or in the judgment of those who invest their money in them. Prussian officer, of the Circassian cavalry, who are about to take a part in the coming conflict. He says: "The Circassian cavalry wear a pointed steel hemlet with a long horse-tail pendant from it. A net of steel work bangs down from the lower part of the hemlet, protects the front and nape of the neck, and is looped together under the chin, underneath a short red vest cut in the Polish fashion. He is clad in a species of coat of mail, consisting of small rings of steel intervened. His arms, from the wrist to the elbow, and his legs, from the foot of the shin bone to the knee, are guarded by thin plates of steel. He also wears close pantaloons and laced boots. Two long Turkish pistols, as well as a poignard, are stuck into his girdle. He has a leather strap with a noose, like a Mexican lasso, hanging at his side, which he throws with great dexterity over the head of his enemy. A Turkish sabre and a long Turkish musket are slung behind his back. and two cartridge-holders across his breast. The skill with which the Circassians use their weapons is really beyond belief. I have seen them repeatedly fire at a piece of card lying on the ground, at full speed, without ever missing. They will pick up a piece of money from the ground while executing a charge, by bending themselves round below the horse's belly, and after seizing the piece, suddenly throw themselves back into the saddle. They form the choicest body of cavalry in the Turkish service, and I have watched them when charging, attack their opponents with a sabre in each hand, managing the reins with their mouth; they will spring out of their saddles, take aim and fire from behind their horses, then jump into their saddles again, wheel round and reload their gun as they retreat in full career. They are perfect madmen in the attack, and few troops could withstand the utter recklessness of danger they evince.
